Dear Mr. Robinson:

As my time was limited while visiting in Appomattox last week, I forgot to subscribe to your paper. However, I have read the copy you handed me and I must say that the sheet has certainly improved since the days I used to stick it up by hand back in 1925.

The merchants of your town should be proud that they have such live, newsy 8-page, all home-print newspaper, as the weekly papers have had a struggle in the past several years and many old papers have folded up. A glance through the pages tells me that you have lashed hard More power to you! Of course, I forget about the "other half", guess she deserves a lot of credit too! Enclosed find check for $1.50 for one year's subscription to your progressing newspaper. The proof of the pudding is in the eating and I notice that the town is growing with the newspaper.

Yours truly,
Asa Meadows.

Types of Mahogany

Mahogany is of three distinct types. West Indian mahogany is the hardest, heaviest and most closely grained. It also has the richest and darkest natural coloring. Tropical mahogany is not so rich in color or of as close grain. The third variety is African wood. It is lighter in color and weight than the others and is singularly free from defects.

Novel Device Checks Field Contour Lines

Technical assistance in laying out contour lines on farms has long been an expressed need of conservation-minded farmers. L. H. Schoenleber, Iowa agricultural engineer, has attempted to meet this need with a device which enables farmers to lay out contour lines for themselves, without surveying equipment or technical assistance.

His invention is called a grade meter. It has not yet been placed on the market, but it has demonstrated its merit in a wide variety of tests. Schoenleber has received a public service patent on the grade meter but plans to subject the device to further tests before offering it to farmers throughout the country. Contour farming is a basic part of the farm planning program.

The grade meter consists of a pendulum connected to an indicator arm through a train of gears. This is mounted rigidly on the tractor in front of the operator. As the pendulum swings it causes the indicator arm to move over a scale which shows deviations from grade. The operator of the tractor endeavors to keep the meter reading zero at all times.

COW 'ON PASTURE' REQUIRES GRAIN

Constant Ration Aids the Production of Milk.

By DR. GEO. E. TAYLOR

Discontinuance of grain feeding of cows on pasture is sometimes credited to the action of the man who killed the goose that laid the golden egg.

Yet many a dairy farmer stops feeding grain as soon as his cows increase their flow under the stimulus of luxuriant pasture rich in protein, minerals and vitamins.

To make so radical a change in the ration is to make a costly mistake.

Dairy cattle on good pasture will maintain increased production without grain for possibly three to four weeks, but they will lose weight in the meantime. Loss of body weight will be followed by a reduction in milk production. Even with renewed grain feeding, it will be difficult to restore production once it has been allowed to slump.

Continued feeding of grain and a limited amount of hay until the cows just turned on pasture are accustomed to the change in their ration is recommended. The amount to be fed will depend upon the quality and amount of available pasture and the level of milk production.

Good pasture alone will provide sufficient nutrients for body maintenance and the production of 10 to 20 or more pounds of milk, depending upon the per cent of fat in the milk. New Jersey experiment station trials demonstrated that the feeding of one pound of grain to 3½ pounds of milk maintained the level production during June. Under average feeding conditions, however, a more liberal allowance of grain is usually recommended for the entire pasture season. One pound of grain to every five or seven pounds of milk produced should be sufficient. The higher testing breeds require the more liberal allowance of grain in proportion to the amount of milk produced.

"Since the protein content of green pasture is higher than the protein content of roughages fed during winter, the protein content of the summer grain mixture can be reduced. A concentrate grain mixture containing 12 per cent crude protein will supply ample protein for cows on excellent pasture, usually high producers excepted. A mixture of such home grown cereal grains as corn, barley and oats containing about 12 per cent crude protein.

"During summer, cows should have free access to a mineral mixture of equal parts salt and steamed bone meal.

Roosevelt To Seek 3rd Term

The Virginia banners did not go into the Roosevelt parades through the convention floor.

It is understood that Jesse Jones of Texas and Senator Byrnes of South Carolina have withdrawn their names from consideration for vice-president and sentiment was seen as swinging toward Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace. In event Wallace is nominated for vice-president the Democrats would have an ex-Republican on their ticket to match Wendell Willkie, the ex-Democrat who heads the Republican ticket.

The Democratic platform was accepted from committee and adopted unanimously.

REACTION HERE

The first reaction in Appomattox to the third-term nomination was that Roosevelt would carry the country in November by a better than 10 to 1 majority. However, several local leaders foresaw a larger vote for Willkie than received by Landon four years ago. Normally Appomattox is one of the most solid Democratic counties in Virginia.

The Roosevelt group in the Virginia delegation was headed by Governor James H. Price.

A demonstration lasting twenty-five minutes followed Senator Hill's speech nominating Roosevelt.

Still Uncertain Over Stonewall REA Line

A show-down is nearing on the efforts to convince the Central Virginia REA Co-op that it should approve and construct the proposed REA power line through the Stonewall section of Appomattox county. The line would likely be the most profitable REA line in the county due to the fact that it would serve the State Lime Grinding Plant and the new Stonewall manganese mine.

Construction of a new $30,000 Lime Grinding Plant on the present site is being delayed by the indecision of the Cooperative. It is reported that the Co-op is willing to build a REA line to the Lime Plant, but wants to stop there and not serve the Stonewall neighborhood. Those seeking the line are said to be holding out for an "all-or-nothing" line. Work on the sign-up for the proposed line was done several months ago but the project has been held in abeyance by the Cooperative.

Young Democrats Lay Plans For Local Banquet

The Young Democratic Club of Appomattox County has started its annual membership campaign. Meeting at the court house here Saturday the club decided to name its membership committees at once and also to authorize President Watkins M. Abbitt to make arrangements for a banquet or other entertainment feature and secure speakers for same. The banquet and speaking will be held during August and admission will be by one's membership ticket.

The membership committees will be headed by Miss Eula Mae Burks for the Men's Division and by Gay F. Abbitt, Jr. for the Ladies Division. Membership tickets have already been placed on sale. It is the duty of each committee to secure the membership in the Club, the $1 membership fee will entitle one to attend the August banquet and a year's subscription to whichever party magazine. The magazine will be enlarged September 1, when taken over and published by the state headquarters in Richmond, with Calvin H. Robinson, of Appomattox as editor-in-chief.

President Abbitt stated that a memorial service for the departed would be compiled in a few days. The ticket committee reports that a number of memberships have already been sold. Last year the club had 489 members.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

From Anti-third-term Democrat

July 23, 1940.

Editor Times-Virginian:
Dear Sir,

As a world-famous humorist was want to say, "all I know is what I see in the papers." I see in the newspapers the Republicans have nominated Wendell Willkie, late of the Democratic party, for President. I see the Democrats in Chicago went through the formality of nominating F. D. Roosevelt for a third term as President of the United States.

Witness the contrast in the two conventions. At Philadelphia, where a free for all fight was anticipated, an unexpected populist clamor forced the nomination of Willkie; while at Chicago all was apparently settled before the convention opened, including the nomination for Vice-President of a former Republican, drafted for a place in the cabinet in a Democratic administration.

The writer has whole-heartedly supported Roosevelt in both 1932 and in 1936, but adheres to the heretofore unbroken rule of no man being President of these United States for more than 8 years.

In the providence of God, and against the apparent wishes of the Republican bosses, the nomination of Willkie for President of the U.S. A. solves the problem of how the independent voter shall cast his vote.

President Roosevelt stated, previous to the late convention at Chicago, that he might conveniently "take a walk" in case the Democrats nominated a man of whom he disapproved.

There are untold thousands of honest voters, who are not at present on the pay-roll of the Federal government who will feel at perfect liberty to "take a walk" next November 5th.

Negro CCC Camp Here for Park Work

A National Park Service Negro Veterans' CCC Camp moved into Appomattox this week to occupy quarters recently vacated by the white soil conservation CCC Camp. The new camp comes to Appomattox from the Yorktown area. It has an enrollment of 192 Negro Veterans, mostly from Virginia, but including some from Pennsylvania and New England.

The commanding officer at the camp is Lieutenant Dale C. L. Honeycutt, with Lieutenan: Will am W. Cooper as second in command.

Project personnel from Fredericksburg are being transferred here. The project superintendent is Earl Carver. The Park Service historian with the camp is Ralph Happer.

The staff of project foremen is expected to move this week-end.

The park camp was sent here to participate in the work of the Appomattox Surrender Ground restoration. The National Park Service has title to approximately 910 acres of land in the historic area. Long-range plans call for complete restoration of the area to its appearance at the time of the Surrender of the Army of Northern Virginia on April 9, 1865. The work is under the general director of the readem superintendent, H. A. Gurney.

The camp site in one-mile north of the town limits of Appomattox, and ranks as one of the most attractive CCC camps in the state in point of appearance.

Says Appomattox Needs More Recreational Facilities

Article Written By Leader of Class in RECREATION

YOUTH CARAVAN WEEK

Recreation has taken too much of a passive form today. All leisure time is spent in some form of paid or spectator type recreation. Active participation is needed. More activity is needed for health.

It is noticed that Appomattox has neglected to fix up play grounds for the young as well as for the old. One speaks of trying to keep the younger generation from "going to the dogs." Youth wants something active and lively to do. Behind the Appomattox school there are baseball diamonds, tennis courts, basketball courts and other outdoor recreational facilities, but they need "fixing up." The tennis courts need grading. New nets are needed for the courts. A chicken-wire fence needs to be built on the side of the tennis court next to the street. Horse-shoe pits need to be constructed. A croquet court would be enjoyed by all. And the most enjoyable part would be a few electric lights placed at the tennis, croquet and horse-shoe courts so that the adults of the town could enjoy the recreation center at night.

Some believe that the Mayor of Appomattox and the Town Council should be vitally interested in a recreational program. And they add that the Lions Club, Ruritan Club, the Masons and all of Appomattox's leading citizens should feel it their responsibility to see that a program of this sort is put across.

Facing the matter squarely, it would be an easy task to raise enough money each spring to keep a school teacher through the summer to direct these recreational activities and possibly work with "ne Boy Scouts, churches, clubs and the town could easily provide this for the actual need as well as enjoyment.

This is a great problem for Appomattox. Let the project be given serious attention.
